Roosevelt Against Payment Of Prevailing Wage Rates On Relief Work

By WM. K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Faced with revolt from within and without administration ranks, the $4,000,000 work-relief bill was slumped back to committee today, probably to die there. Instead of the $4,880,000, "with no string attached," which President Roosevelt weeks ago asked congress to grant him, he probably will get, instead, a straight-out relief fund of less than half the amount.

This was the direction in which administration leaders were moving today, after their defeat on the McCarran amendment, which would have the government to pay "prevailing wages" on all public works.

Roosevelt Opposes Move
President Roosevelt left the capital for Boston and Hyde Park today, leaving his legislative leaders to battle it out.

They understood that under no circumstances would he accept the measure with the "prevailing wage" amendment. The President considers that this amendment defeats the very purpose of the measure, and he let legislative leaders know that he planned to veto it if it is presented to him in this form.

Confronted with the exhaustion of federal relief funds, administration leaders at the Capitol planned to strip the works feature from the bill and rush to enactment a straight relief measure.

PA NEW OBSERVES

Traffic conditions have been quite hazardous in New Castle and vicinity for the past few days, due to the heavy downfall of snow. Street and highway departments have been given a real battle to keep the roads and streets in condition. Last night, after another heavy fall of snow, the downfall turned to rain for a time, then weather conditions grew colder, with the result that a heavy crust formed over the top of the snow. To top it all off, prior to the rain, the snow had drifted badly.

An old fashioned bobbed, drawn by two big white horses and driven by one of the Amish men who come to own regularly on Saturday mornings, pulled the curiosity of North Hill youngsters this morning. Indeed such vehicles of transportation are a rarity nowadays and little wonder the kids even examined the horses to see if they were real.

One of Pa. New's family today observed an oddity in transportation. It was the top of a buggy which had been removed and placed on "runners" and is owned by a farmer. It attracted the interest of many passers-by.

Wiley Post Gets Title "The Man From Mars"

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 23.—Wiley Post, who can now boast of the title of "the man from Mars" today was planning once again to attempt an eight-hour stratosphere flight between Los Angeles and New York following a forced landing on Muroc dry lake on his first attempt.

A broken oil line forced Post to land yesterday shortly after he had started his flight.

The "Winnie Mae," the plane in which Post has twice flown around the world, was undamaged in the forced landing, despite the fact it slid to a stop on a strut constructed on the bottom of the fuselage. The landing gear had been dropped by Post on the take-off. A bent propeller tip was the only damage to the plane aside from the broken oil line.

Post earned his title, "the man from Mars" when, dressed in his stratosphere suit and helmet which he could not remove without aid, he accosted a prospector who was working on a disabled automobile near the landing place.

The aviator said the prospector was badly frightened and later said he thought he was being hailed by a "man from Mars."

Relief Workers In Meeting Here

Gather This Morning At Relief Headquarters And Present Demands

WRIGHT PRESIDES OVER ASSEMBLAGE

With an estimated 500 to 600 present, a mass meeting of RWD workers was held today at the relief headquarters on South Mill street. Despite the inclement weather the crowd stayed until the meeting adjourned and their demands presented to the relief and RWD authorities.

Harry L. Wright, president of the Co-Operative Workers of America was in charge and spoke briefly in the crowd. He had been in Butler on an organization trip and took occasion to correct a statement carried in other papers concerning an investigation of relief conditions here.

Was Misquoted
"Apparently the Butler newspaper man misquoted me," said Mr. Wright. "I did not say that Robert L. Johnson, State Executive Director had ordered an investigation of relief conditions in the Lawrence, Butler, Mercer area. I did say that Mr. Johnson had told me that he was getting information upon conditions here with a view to deciding whether or not an investigation was warranted."

Sudden Fame For Honesty Apparently Affects Man's Mind

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Frank Grege, sixty seven year old "sandwich man," who a few weeks ago was catapulted into the nation's headlines, and comparative fortune, as the "honest man of Wall Street" by turning in to police a wallet containing $42,000 in negotiable securities, was violently insane today.

The hitherto mild, unassuming little man threw his bawling lodging house into an uproar when he flung himself writhing and moaning upon the floor, and in stentorian tones proclaimed he was "God."

He raved that he was Diety itself, that those upon whom he cast his "fatal" glance, died. That he had looked upon only three men fatally that day.

Speciator Falls Dead
In the midst of this pathetic scene, Robert E. Edwards, of Los Angeles, an itinerant lodger at the hotel, tripped blithely up the stairs, took one look at the soggling figure upon the floor, gasped, and fell dead!

Highways Crews Are Still Battling Snow In District

Around Ten Inches Of Snow, With Rain And Sleet Has Fallen In Two Days

ROADS IN WORST SHAPE IN YEARS

State highway crews today were still battling the effects of the two-day snow, rain, and sleet storm, which has gripped the district. Superintendent of Highways H. W. Lightner stated this morning, and are gradually working their way out of the worst traffic condition which has existed here in years.

Close to ten inches of snow has fallen during the two-day period, and the already hazardous traffic condition which has existed was made worse when the snow turned into rain and sleet during the night. Roads were covered with a sheet of ice, which formed in a crust over top of the snow, and covered with moisture, made motor travel almost impossible unless machines were equipped with chains.

The rain turned into snow again during the night as the temperature

Slush, Snow And Ice Make Travel Difficult

(International News Service)

Blanketed by the heaviest snowfall of the year, Western and Central Pennsylvania trudged through slush and skidded over ice today while the eastern district felt a light rainfall.

It was truly the weather of "37 varieties" predicted by Punxsutawney's groundhog when he cast a shadow three weeks ago. Temperatures varied with the weather but it was neither too cold nor too mild for the season in any spot.

More than a half-foot of snow had fallen in the western and central areas when it turned to rain. This immediately turned the snow into slush. Travel over highways and city streets was hazardous but all roads were reported open by the state highway department which had a force of 1,800 workmen on duty throughout the state.

Two deaths were indirectly attributed to the storm in Pittsburgh while motor crashes were frequent.

Report 32 Inches Of Snow At Cresson—Worst Storm Of Many Years

(International News Service)

Caught in the throes of the worst snowstorm in years, eight buses, containing more than 200 passengers, and a score of automobiles were dragged from huge drifts, ranging from eight to ten feet in height, on the William Penn highway east of Blairsville today.

Other motorists were trapped in drifts which piled high generally throughout the central district where a storm that started yesterday morning spent its fury. Snow ranging from 14 to 42 inches buried the countryside, crippling traffic, delaying railroad trains and causing the suspension of airplane travel.

Worst In Score Of Years
Oldtimers who have seen storms come and go in the Alleghenies, "graveyard of aviators" called the deluge of snow the worst in a score of years. In many places throughout Indiana, Jefferson, Cambria, and Westmoreland counties weathered observers said nothing like it has been seen in fifty years.

While the eastern section of the state escaped with a light snowfall which turned to rain, the Western district did not escape. Snowfall there ranged between six inches and a foot. Then came rain and subsequent slush and vehicles churned over treacherous highways. In the Central region, however, hail and sleet came instead of rain while a 35 mile wind added to the ferocity of the storm.

Lots of Washington news. The senate overruled the president and said that the government must pay you as much for unemployment work as the regular wages of that business. Ask Autoists To Aid Work

Drivers Asked To Have Parked Cars Off Downtown Streets By Midnight

B. F. Butler, director of streets, today requested that all autoists remove their cars from all business lanes, excepting Washington street before midnight as a force of street workers will start working promptly at midnight cleaning gutters.

Director Butler said a situation seldom experienced exists here and the gutters must be cleaned. Due to the transaction of business during the daytime the work has been handicapped by cars parked against the curb.

The request to remove cars from all business lanes affects all parts of the city except Washington street where gutters already have been cleaned.

A big wide yard is a lovely thing when the calendar says its July, and the flowers are out and the grass is cut, and the sidewalks are clear and dry. But its something else when the snow is here and its packed like a chocolate cake, and the shovels slip as you operate and all of your muscles ache. Its something else when the snow is on, it seems like a mile or more, when you have to shovel a pathway out, the weather is thirty-four.

GIRL IN PLANE LEAP WORE WEDDING RING

Letters Are Left In Suicide Pact

Contents Are Not As Yet Made Public—Post Mortem Conducted

FIND NO TRACE OF WHISKEY OR DRUGS

(International News Service)
LONDON, Feb. 23.—The mystery of a wedding ring worn by Jane Du Bois as she and her sister Elizabeth spectacularly leaped to their deaths from a British air liner today overshadowed the routine investigation of the strange suicide pact.

The sisters, young and handsome daughters of Coert Du Bois, American consul-general at Naples, supposedly committed suicide because of grief over the deaths of two British Royal Force flyers, who had died a week before in a crash in Italy, and to whom they were reported engaged.

Used Married Name.
Possibility that this held the clue only to the suicide of Elizabeth, the elder sister, developed when the wedding ring was found on Jane's lifeless hand. Furthermore, residents of a London apartment house where the sisters lived last June said that Jane always wore a wedding ring, and that she used a married name as well as her maiden name.

Letters which the sisters left in the suicide plane were formally opened today by Coroner C. E. Lewis at the Horthchurch county mortuary, where the bodies reposed. The letters, kept secret pending arrival of the girls' parents from Italy tonight, were understood to reveal a carefully planned suicide pact.

"In view of certain suggestions," Dr. M. L. Hendrie, on instructions from the coroner, carried out a thorough post mortem examination and found no trace whatever of drugs or whiskey.

He found the girls were in perfect health at the time of their deaths, which were due to severe internal injuries.

Income Tax
NO 24. DEDUCTION FOR DEPRECIATION

The revenue act provides for a reasonable allowance for the exhaustion, wear and tear of property used in the trade or business including a reasonable allowance for obsolescence. For convenience, such allowance usually is referred to as depreciation.

In claiming a deduction for depreciation several fundamental principles must be observed. The deduction must be confined to property actually used in trade, business, profession and to improvements on real property, other than property used by the taxpayer as his personal residence. In general, it applies to the taxpayer's capital assets—buildings, machinery, etc.—the cost of which cannot be deducted as a business expense.

A lawyer, doctor, or other professional man may not charge off as a current expense the cost of a library used wholly in his profession, this being a capital expenditure and the library a capital asset, but he may deduct an allowance for depreciation based on the useful life of the library. If part of a professional man's residence is used by him for office purposes, a proportionate amount of the depreciation sustained may be deducted, based generally on the ratio of the number of rooms used for such purposes to the total number of rooms in the building.

The same principle applies if a taxpayer rents to others a portion of his residence, the taxpayer must include in his gross income the rentals received.

HUGE DRIFTS ARE REPORTED NEAR BLAIRSVILLE, PA.

out the night with snowplows, highway crews reported all main arteries of travel open this morning. In the majority of cases, however, vehicles were forced to move at a snail's pace. In the regions hit by rain, the roads were slippery.

Snow in the vicinity of Blairsville reached 32 inches in depth while at Cresson, it was 32 inches and about two feet in Johnstown. More than a foot and a half covered Indiana and Jefferson counties while Elk county reports a foot. In addition, a light fall continued today.

Twenty inches prevailed at Altoona where many buses, heading west from New York were halted during the night. The last bus to reach Blairsville from the east arrived at 9:30 last night. Atop Pennview mountain snow reached a depth of three feet.

Over 890 Snowplows Out
The State Highway Department enlisted its entire manpower to open the roads. A total of 893 snowplows and cinder trucks, manned by 2,713 men, were at work.

Only 11 highways were closed entirely, 6 in Jefferson, 4 in Indiana and 1 in Armstrong. One way traffic was open on all other routes in those counties where snow ranged from 15 to 22 inches with a gale blowing up high drifts several feet high, the department reported.

A 65 mile an hour gale was reported in the Uniontown district where the snowfall ranged from 3 to 14 inches. Reports from other sections were:

Erie—Six to nine inches, roads slippery; Sleeting; McKean—18 to 23 inches, rain; Williamsport—15 inches, slippery; now; Scranton—11 inches, sleeting; Allentown—one to three inches, rain and sleet; Philadelphia—one to four inches, slippery; and Pittsburgh—six to 14 inches, slushy.

The government weather bureau at the Bellefonte airport reported 10 inches of snow at midnight while 13 1-4 inches were recorded by the Pennsylvania State College weather bureau.

ABUSE OF THE FRANK

If any one doubts that free postal service as now provided by the government has not reached the proportions of a scandal and abuse, he has only to consider what the franking privilege would have cost had those who benefit by it had to pay their postage in 1934.

The amount of franked material carried by the mails during that year, if proper postage had been required, would have meant a revenue to the government of from $28,000,000 to $32,000,000, according to the Memphis Commercial Appeal.

During the past year the flow of franked mail has continued steadily and its continued increase is almost certain. Comparatively little serves a useful purpose. A great deal of it is for propaganda, the exploitation of personal ideas, or for mere election purposes of federal officeholders.

CRUEL AND UNUSUAL PUNISHMENTS

Death by beheading may not be more painful than any other form of capital punishment. But the French Revolution brought the guillotine into ill favor—a feeling reflected by the Nazi revenge upon two women convicted as spies after a secret trial. All this may be sentiment; but sentiment is often more powerful than reason.

For one consideration or another civilized nations have turned to hanging or electrocution as the more humane way of ending life. It is easy, therefore, to understand why the recent Nazi performance has aroused so much protest in other countries. The spy must know that he takes his life in his hand. Even in such a case the axe is not in accord with modern usage.

AUTOMOBILES AS LUXURIES

The American tourist in England and, for that matter, the countries on the continent, is impressed with the relative scarcity of automobiles on the streets and the highways and with the manifest fact that they are the possessions exclusively of persons of obvious means.

An inquiry conducted by one of the London newspapers into the amount of earnings necessary before a resident of England can afford to keep an automobile clearly establishes the reason why they are not the common property of all citizens, virtually regardless of economic circumstances, as is the case in the United States.

An owner of an automobile in England, the inquiry shows, must have a minimum income of $2,000 a year. Taxes, not the cost of the car, is the reason. When an Englishman pays $100 or more a year to register a car, even the cheapest, 18 cents a gallon for gasoline, together with numerous other taxes, he has taken a substantial cut out of his income.

An automobile in England is not for the $25 or even the $35 a week man. It is a luxury for the moderately well-to-do. It is not improbable that a somewhat similar condition will develop in this country if the tax load continues to grow constantly greater.

TREES IN DESERTS

For a number of years the federal government has been experimenting with trees in the hope of finding a species that will grow in the great plains area of the Southwest. This might seem to be going against nature, but it has already been shown that with man's intelligent aid, nature can do many beneficent things which she cannot do alone.

Large areas in the sandy barrens of Northwestern Nebraska, for example, are now being covered with the green of a species of pine tree which the ingenuity of man has discovered to be adaptable to that apparently forbidding soil.

There are, of course, many things in which man can survive only by adapting himself to the hard facts of nature, but man's higher civilization has been due in no small degree to the discovery that nature herself is plastic in many things and can be adapted to human needs.

We shall yet see great forests on the wide expanses of American soil now treeless, just as we shall see rich crops of vegetables, grain and fruit on soil now unproductive for want of plant foods which man can supply, thanks to his discoveries in the chemistry of soils and fertilizing materials.

THUMBS DOWN ON LOANS

It was a bit rough the way those debt negotiations with the Russian government were cut off, when Ambassador Troyanovsky came back from Moscow smiling in anticipation of a nice loan, and was bluntly told that there was nothing doing. But it was just as well. Everybody will get the idea.

Russian loans, to be sure, are different from other loans we've made to foreign governments. What is due from Russia was lent to the czars; the Soviet government has always paid. We owed Russia something, too, as damages, for butting into a private war between the Kerensky government and the Communists some years ago.

Naturally it's hard to agree about the present equities of those old debts. But Russia was willing to settle, on a low scale—provided we lent her the money to do it with, plus enough more to buy some machinery and other stuff that she needs.

The result would be that Uncle Sam wouldn't really get anything, but would have more foreign debt outstanding. And we're all tired of that sort of thing.

We tried lending foreign countries money to fight with, and then lending them money to buy our own goods, and neither scheme worked well. We were "out" in money, or goods, or both. If Uncle Sam still feels like lending money for people to buy American goods, he can lend it at home. We may not be any better off then—it's like shifting money from one pocket to another—but we still have both the money and the goods.

A PAINFUL SUBJECT

There's a playwright in New York these days whose name is Sean O'Casey and he came out of Ireland and he's a very good writer of plays and very popular with the intellectuals—but he won't wear evening clothes. . . . And he has caused quite a bit of talk.

He says that "better dress," as the style authorities phrase it, is too much trouble. He isn't being particularly snobbish. He'd rather wear a sweater. . . . So he wears a sweater. . . . He refuses to wear a shirt like you and me, and the other slaves of custom. Won't wear a shirt with attached collar, either. Won't wear an open-necked shirt. Won't wear a necktie. . . . Just sticks to that brown shirt and if you don't like it, very well you don't like it. (Perhaps he has a lot of brown knitted sweaters. I hope so, because you can't wear the same old brown sweater every day and still be welcome in any company.)

But I agree with that Mr. O'Casey about "full dress." It's entirely a personal matter. Other men can dress that way if they wish. In fact, I know a number of men who like to put on their "soup and fish" and go out to dinners and dances. But not me. . . . I had a suit of those things once, when I was young and docile. I bought it for $5 from a friend for $10 who had bought from another friend for $10 who had bought from a total stranger for $15. It fitted me here and there and was fragile in places. The only trouble was that I couldn't tie a bow tie and whenever I wore my suit I had to go up the street a few doors and ask Mrs. Quick to tie it for me. And once when I needed her she had left town to visit her daughter and I had to scour the neighborhood for someone who knew how to tie a white bow-tie.

Fortunately our house burned down about 12 years ago and my better dress burned, too, and I haven't been troubled since.

I haven't a sweater, either. Last one I had was of the ruff-neck, foot-ball-her type, and I left it at home when I went to war. When I came home I looked for it and couldn't find it, but my sister confessed she had unraveled it to make into scarfs and mittens for the poor soldier-boys. (You see, she hadn't thought I was ever coming back, and I was quite annoyed about that.) And it was something of a strain on the family tie.

I used to wear blue serge for "best," too. Those suits were very nice when they were new, but they got so shiny in the seat and on the shoulder blades and they showed dust so easily—and this is a painful subject, so perhaps I'd better stop.

DUTY TO YOUR LODGE REQUIRES MORE THAN PAYMENT OF DUES

You were accorded an honor when you were admitted to the lodge with which you are affiliated.

Several men passed upon you as a suitable person for membership. They expect you to contribute something besides your dues.

What have you done to help any of the organizations to which you belong?

You appear at meetings only if there is to be some special feature. If service of any kind is required, you have many excuses to offer.

You are willing to appear and shine when the big affairs are on; in fact, you make every effort to procure a prominent part at such times.

Especially in this true when there is to be an open meeting, or when a similar organization is to be entertained.

There are many meetings of lodges and societies that are lacking in special interest, but attendance is important.

Are you doing your share of the routine work of the organization to which you belong?

THE FLU GERM

Staphylo, thou tiny germ, Making mortals twist and squirm; Fitting named—and this my hunch is.

Grapelike, bringing woes in bunches; Cause of fever, source of chills, Mustard plasters, doctor bills!

What a foolish life is man's! How uncertain all his plans When a tiny thing like you Can attack him with the flu, And with temples flaming red Keep his whimpering in bed.

None so clever, none so shrewd As your clutches to elude. Giant, strong man, parson, sage, Strut awhile upon the stage. But with aches and aches chilly, You can make them all look silly.

Staphylo, thou tiny germ, Cutting short man's boastful term; Made to wriggle, writhe and crawl Yet be overlord of all!

Can man be so much at that, When a flu germ lays him flat? (Copyright, 1935, Edgar A. Guest)

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 5:44. Sun rises tomorrow 6:42.

The Senate in its investigation of the munitions business has been told that there is a thirty-five per cent profit in warships. Seems like there is a big profit in almost everything the government buys. No wonder so many people are advocating having the government go into business itself. Look at the nice lot of money they could make for the poor taxpayers.

"Is that parrot your neighbor has a smart bird."
"Smart—Well, I should say so. The other day when I went up to him and said: 'Hello! hello!' he opened one eye and drowsily answered: 'Line's busy.'"

The objection to majority rule is that people always vote for the candidate most like themselves.

Something ought to be done to the patent medicine vendors who have their literature scattered around on door-steps. A North hill woman who imagined that she was perfectly sound, discovered that she had three or four diseases according to the circulars. "Then think of the broken backs sustained in picking up the trash from the door-steps."

KEEPING ON THE MOVE
Alice: Maud has made some swell marriages, but divorced all her husbands.

Gladys: Yes, she moves in the best triangles, so to speak.

When women were given the right to vote and run for office in Turkey, they immediately elected seventeen women to the Turkish parliament, which is quite a little bit better than the women in the United States have been able to do.

A Youngstown woman was granted a divorce, when she stated she couldn't support her husband and his family alone. Some men are quite inconsiderate, it would seem.

Counterfeiters passed over seven and a half million dollars worth of spurious coins and bills in Philadelphia alone during January, and yet the government objects to increasing the amount of paper money in circulation. Looks like there are some real inflationists at work in this country.

James E. Isherwood, state commander of the American Legion, warns that groups of men, parading under the banner of labor, are spreading insidious Communist propaganda. A boy never stops chasing a girl, until she finally catches him.

After many trials and tribulations, a Vermont couple have finally been married. They secured a license to wed in August, 1933. While they were arguing over who should be invited and the date of the wedding, they lost the license. Then they lost the one that replaced it. Finally a third license was secured, and they were urged to get married immediately which they did. We don't think they wanted to get married so bad at that.

"You say you never clash with your wife?"
"Never. She goes her way and I go hers."

Big brother was a bit careless about his appearance. Perhaps the reaction from military discipline had something to do with it. When he took his seat at the family dinner table his chin presented a visibly stubbly outlook, and mother protested mildly. "Frank," she asked, "don't you need shaving?" "Shaving!" broke in the younger brother scornfully. "What he needs is shearing."

A CLOSED MATTER
"I hear that Jenkins and his wife had a row over the kind of car they decided to buy this summer. He wanted an open one and she a closed one. Anyhow, the incident is now closed."

"Yes, so is the car. I saw her in it this morning."

To that category of gag phrases which includes "honest lawyer" and "painless dentist" one more should be added—"Easy payments."

A local pastor was talking to a woman whose name he had not caught. The name of the Reverend Doctor Blank was mentioned, whereupon he said: "Well, to me, Doctor Blank is a dry old stick! Do you not think so?"

"No," answered the lady sweetly; "but perhaps I should if he were not my husband."

We often hear people say that the city is no place to keep a dog, but do you know that in New York, the largest city in the United States, there are now more dogs than ever in its history. Formerly they were banned from apartment houses and hotels, but now you find them everywhere. Many of the hotels have special dog menus, and some of the 400 have uniformed attendants to exercise their dogs. Relief costs in New York top any other city. So do the dogs.

You can always tell a married man. He apologizes when he is right.

Be sure your sins will find you out. It is told of a certain local fisherman who made good catches last summer, that he bought a set of scales, and insisted on weighing every fish he caught in the presence of a witness, presumably so that he could convince his friends that he told the truth. The other day a doctor borrowed his scales to weigh a new-born baby. The baby weighed forty-seven pounds.

County commissioners over in Butler county have reduced the tax millage of that county one mill from last year, making a total of only seven mills, county and poor combined for this year. The World At A Glance

Ebb Against President.
His Three Big Problems.
Finances Are Worrisome.

Central Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—President Roosevelt is beginning the second half of his term with the ebb against him.

That is an opinion expressed by many persons. There usually is a mid-term reaction to a president. That is one of the healthy symptoms of a republic. The emotion then has worn off.

President Roosevelt, however, is in a more precarious predicament than his predecessors. None has had such an economic crisis to meet, nor so many conflicting forces to consolidate. The Rooseveltian reaction comes largely, though, of his own making—his endeavor to compromise with all forces, first one, then the other.

That is the opinion in the larger cities. The farm regions, however, may believe differently, since their economic pressure has been greatly lessened.

THREE MAJOR PROBLEMS
There are three major problems confronting President Roosevelt as he begins the second half of his term—government, itself; finances and social reform.

Students of government do not fear that forces from outside will reshape the American government and destroy democratic safeguards. They fear forces from within.

For example, the congressional committee which investigated Nazi and communistic activities, is making recommendations that might make it possible for a government to perpetrate itself and actually imprison all its opponents.

There now lies within the hands of the president the power to promulgate regulations without the sanction of legislative assemblies. Suppose somebody should criticize such regulations. Under new laws proposed by the congressional committee, would the critic not be an "enemy" to the government?

Suppose, too, persons alarmed over the destruction of democratic safeguards, should form a political party to protect individual rights. Could such persons not be imprisoned?

It is not that President Roosevelt himself fosters any such ideas. Nor is it likely that his aides foster any such results.

But in other democratic countries the beginning of the end of liberties came under liberal regimes which compromised with anti-democratic forces to retain their good will. Such has been history from Rome to Germany, through the centuries.

FINANCES
In the matter of finances, President Roosevelt enters the second half of his term with a burden of debt that augers either for confiscation of property values or inflation, or its consequent hardships and disillusionments.

Efforts to maintain the established economic system through vast expenditures may, in the end, prove the destruction of that system, conservative economists tell us.

That, however, is not to be argued here. The money has largely been spent—and millions of men still are unemployed.

The next efforts, by forces that the president will have difficulty in resisting, will be toward inflation on a large scale.

Then, when inflation on a large scale does come, when will the bubble burst? Prior to the next election—or after? But whether it bursts or not, the problem will remain a dangerous one. There are no party lines on such a matter, and all who resist (including even a president) undoubtedly will be called reactionaries or "old fogies." Emotionalism may rise high against them.

On the other hand, the alternative suggested by liberal economists is not likely to be tried in the United States during the immediate future at least—legal confiscation of excess property values. That is the single taxer's method of equalizing wealth and income.

But conservative economists say that the worst feature of a program of planning ahead on the basis of inflation is that we may fall heir to both inflation and property value confiscation in a nerve-wracking, hazardous manner, instead of a planned orderly manner.

The rule of reason may give way to the rule of mob, in the extremity.

SOCIAL REFORM
Beside the other two monumental problems, of government and finances, social reform becomes a lesser matter.

A purely democratic government, with equitable taxation, would bring social reform of its own initiative. Yet, because the administration has a program of expediency rather than a definite plan, angry forces will battle directly to the White House door on collective bargaining rights, child labor, shorter work-week, old age pensions, job and health insurance, restriction of speculation, and manipulation of giant corporations at the public expense.

Not one of these reforms can be maintained, nor any achieved in the years past, unless the stability of democratic institutions is sustained and a citizen receives his due share of the wealth of the land in undepreciated currency or its equivalent.

And the vagueness of the administration on such main issues permits the rise of all sorts of contriving forces to bewilder and to entrap the average citizen.

Young People Have Conference

Three Hundred Gather At Sessions In Epworth Church Friday

THIEL PRESIDENT SHARES PROGRAM

Three hundred active Christian young people from the various Sabbath schools of Lawrence county celebrated Washington's birthday by gathering at the Epworth M. E. church for two conference sessions and a banquet.

This was under the auspices of the Young Peoples division of the Lawrence County Sabbath School Association with Marjorie Streeter as County Young Peoples superintendent, in charge. The Young Peoples superintendent of the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association, Rev. E. H. Boushall was present and directed the thought of the conference in his opening address to "Christian Youth Building a New World." He also laid emphasis on the discussion groups to follow and stated that the young people should, by group discussion, arrive at certain very definite findings in regard to the important problems presented to them.

Dr. E. S. Rudisill, president of Thiel College, had charge of the discussion group on "Christian Courtship and Marriage"; Rev. C. H. Heaton, pastor of the First Baptist church of New Castle had charge of the discussion group on "Christian Young People and the Use of Beverage Alcohol"; and Rev. E. H. Boushall led the group in the discussion on "Personal Faith and Belief." The young people took an active part in all of these discussions and presented constructive reports at the evening session.

"Hobby Groups" were later formed at the afternoon session and "Games," "Travel," "Journalism" and "Music" were the hobbies that were most appealing to the young people.

Camp songs enlivened the splendid banquet which was prepared and served by the ladies of the Epworth M. E. church, after which the conference met in the auditorium for the evening session which closed with an address by Rev. Boushall and the Friendship Circle.

Findings On Beverage Alcohol
The findings of the group which met to discuss "The Christian and the Use of Beverage Alcohol," C. H. Heaton leader:

1. We find that since the repeal of the eighteenth amendment every promise made by the advocates of reform has been broken and that every prophecy made by the opponents of repeal has been fulfilled.

The more important results now are:

1. The spirit of lawlessness is not lessened but increased.

2. The saloon, in a more vicious form, has returned.

3. More bootleg liquor is being consumed than during prohibition.

4. Drinking among youth and women is more obvious than ever.

5. Drunken driving is rapidly increasing.

6. By license the government has become an accomplice in crime.

II. It is our firm conviction that the use of alcoholic beverages in any form and in any amount is harmful to health and destructive of happiness. Alcohol is habit-forming and, therefore, its use leads to drunkenness. Drinking and drunkenness, more than any other practice known to man, is responsible for sorrow, sickness, crime, poverty, degradation, distress, pauperism, corruption and premature death.

III. We do highly resolve that we will not accept the present status of the liquor question as final. We refuse to be intimidated by land-slides of public opinion. We are determined to act. Specifically we propose to take the following measures:

1. We will practice total abstinence from the use of beverage alcohol, and will advocate that practice among all other people.

2. We will patronize, whenever possible, only those restaurants, hotels and other public places where alcohol is not sold.

3. We will advocate the return of prohibition, no matter how remote the possibility may seem to be, as the only ultimate solution of the liquor problem.

4. We will support the measures which look to the divorcement of the traffic in liquor from philanthropy.

5. We will advocate the enactment of legislation which will make it a misdemeanor to advertise booze in papers, magazines, on bill boards and over the radio, since such advertising is invariably false, misleading and harmful.

6. We will oppose the use of cigarettes and other narcotics as being the creators of cravings for stronger stimulants.

To these convictions and to the carrying out of these resolutions we dedicate the strength of our youth in the name of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ.

Nature uses bribery, too. She always lets you get a kick out of doing the things she wants you to do.

On Court House Hill

The New Brighton Building and Loan Association has issued a writ of possession against Daniel and Helen Boris, to secure possession of a property in Ellwood City, which was purchased by the association at sheriff sale.

Owing to excessive use by Home Owners Loan Corporation attorneys during the past year, some of the books in the prothonotary's office and in the register and recorder's office, are somewhat the worse for wear. It had been planned to have some of the volumes rebound this year, but in the interests of economy it has been decided to postpone the work for another year.

William A. Eakin, chief clerk in the county commissioners' office, with other employees, has started on the work of figuring up the amount of taxes on each property in the county at the rate of 8 1/2 mills which has been fixed by the county commissioners. The duplicates which are placed in the county treasurer's hands must show the exact amount of the tax due on each property. It is a big job to figure up taxes on all properties and will take a month or more. No 1935 taxes can be paid until the work is completed.

The Taxpayers' Forum has laid before the state administration a four-point program designed to make drastic cuts in governmental expenditures and increase efficiency of local and county units. The plan includes, first, center all local collections in county and city treasurers; second, establish a welfare unit in each county to co-ordinate all public welfare services, including poor boards; third, enforce uniform budget procedure on every local unit of government; and fourth, create a legislative commission to consider reorganization and consolidation of local governments.

Survey of the budget upon which the county commissioners based the tax millage for 1935, shows that the biggest item of expense to the (taxpayers of Lawrence county, is the amount of money paid to penal institutions. This is for keeping criminals sent up from the county in the Allegheny county workhouse, penitentiaries, reformatories and other places of confinement. This item of expense does not seem to vary much from year to year, although in 1932, the amount expended was $44,697.07, as against $38,738.79 in 1934. In 1933, the cost dropped to $34,863.65. The appropriation for this year is $38,750.

One of the most difficult problems confronting the county is the delinquent tax list. As shown in the estimate of expenses of the county which was presented to the county commissioners by County Controller R. C. McCaslin, around thirty per cent of the taxes levied during the past few years has been uncollected and now stands as a lien against property owners. Up until 1929 the great majority of property owners were able to pay their taxes regularly. Since that time there has been a sharp decrease in the number of persons who have been able to pay, with the result that it has reached the alarming stage of thirty per cent. Prospects of better payments for the present year do not appear to be any brighter. Hundreds of people are anxious to pay but have been unable to do so through unemployment. Happily under the bill signed by the governor this week there can be no sales of property for taxes before 1937, but in the meantime interest and penalties are accruing on the taxes now delinquent, or that will become delinquent this year.

Court house officials have had two holidays this month, but are not likely to have any more until the fourth of July.

The next regular session of court will be held on Monday, March 5, when the grand jury will convene to pass judgment on the bills to be presented by District Attorney Mont L. Ailey.

Stock Market Is Depressed

Opening Flurry In Utilities Is Soon Absorbed By Market

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—A fresh dribble of liquidation again depressed the stock market today bringing losses running to more than a point. An opening flurry in the utilities which lifted some of the favorites more than a point, was based on the decision of Federal Judge Grubb holding the T. V. A.'s retail sales of electricity illegal. The upturn, however, was merely a flurry. The rest of the list as a whole showed little resistance to the selling. Railroad shares were particularly weak with Atchafalaya, New York Central, Southern Railway common and preferred, Pennsylvania and Lackawanna coming in with striking distance of their 1934-1935 lows. U. S. Steel was another conspicuous weak spot dropping more than a point, apparently foreshadowing another decline in the industry's operations. Bethlehem and Republic suffered slightly smaller losses. General Motors and Chrysler were heavy and declined fractionally. The motor equipments turned comparatively dull on the reaction. Baldwin Locomotive was again weak, slumping more than a point to come within an eighth of a point of its bear market low established in 1932.

Auxiliary Has Good Program

Patriotic Program Is Presented By Auxiliary Of Veterans Of Foreign Wars

DINNER GIVEN FOR MRS. CONNER

In an unique manner, the birthday of all members of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, was celebrated Thursday evening, by a dinner, on the eve of President Ruth Conner's birthday. It was decided to make this an annual event, to be held in connection with the birthday of the president of the Auxiliary, and will be known as the Presidential dinner.

At 6:30 o'clock, the members gathered about the dinner table and after joining hands, sang "Blest be the tie that binds." The 35 members present then sat down to a bountiful chicken dinner, at a long table, beautifully decorated with American flags; red, white, and blue crepe streamers, and cherry trees. At both ends of the table, and in the center, were large birthday cakes, baked by Mrs. Ada Miller and Mrs. Gergette Wimer. During the course of the dinner, Mrs. Winifred Nicklin, in behalf of those there, presented Mrs. Conner with a lovely leather pocket-book. Mrs. Conner responded with thanks and also thanked the committee which had cooked and served the dinner. This committee was composed of Mesdames Mary Cox, Ada Miller, Louise Evans, Mabel Kennedy, Georgia Lee, Gergette Wimer, Flossie Potter, Emma Woods, Elsie Lach, and Sarah McLafferty.

At 8 o'clock, the regular business session of the Auxiliary took place, with President Conner in the chair. Reports were given by Adella Evans and Mary Cox, chairmen of the recent Tri-County council dinner, and by Mrs. Maude Nolan, of the recent bake sale.

Hospitalization chairman, Mrs. Betty Stoner, asked the members to give and collect rayon underwear and other garments, to be taken to the Veterans hospital to be made into rugs.

"De Lawd" Back On Broadway

After tramping the road for two years, "De Lawd" has returned to Broadway for another run. As you probably know, "De Lawd" is Richard B. Harrison, 70-year-old Negro star of "The Green Pastures," which played the Cathedral auditorium some months ago.

Mr. Harrison has been the star of the cast since the play first opened on Broadway five years ago. He has never missed a performance in all that time. The play, refused by many producers half a dozen years ago, has grossed over $3,000,000, and has played 1,652 performances in 203 cities, a record bested only by "Abie's Irish Rose." The company has travelled over 40,000 miles.

Still popular, "The Green Pastures" will reopen on Broadway on next Tuesday night, February 26.

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY

came once more, a dreary old-fashioned celebration for some new era Americans, a comforting day for old-fashioned Americans who like to be reminded that this country once felt able to manage its own affairs without direction from Europe.

Washington proved that we could do it with a population one-third the present population of New York state. Somebody may appear among today's 130,000,000 Americans convinced that what fewer than 4,000,000 Americans could do in 1776, more than 130,000,000 Americans can do in 1935.

THIS IS THE day's interesting news: Scientists in India believe they have discovered fossil remains of a human race fifteen inches tall. The men would not come up to your knee, the women half way up the calf of your leg. These smallest pygmies, with black faces, and ugly coarse hair and beard, so long that they "served as garments." Think of man with hair and whiskers wrapped around his legs, arms and body.

Primitive women in cold climates used their long, matted hair as a blanket for the baby at the breast, an entire costume of hair is new.

The smallest pygmies now living are four feet high, the women somewhat shorter, and you may reasonably doubt the genuineness of fifteen-inch pygmies, found in the state of Baroda, India.

THE RACE MIGHT have been artificially bred for the amusement of normal-sized barbarians, as we breed small toy dogs. Fifteen-inch men could hardly have survived against foxes, bats, jackals, eagles. At the same time everything is possible. The North Sea right whale, sixty feet long, is the descendant of a "tree shrew", not much bigger than Camara's thumb.

THE IMPORTANT news, extremely important, is supplied to Mr. Adolph S. Ochs by his bright young man, Arthur Krook, who lives and watches in Washington. Mr. Krook says President Roosevelt had ready a radio address to be used had the Supreme Court decided against the government's gold policy. A decision that would have added from sixty-nine to one hundred billion dollars "to domestic and government obligations."

THE PRESIDENT'S message, prepared, but not delivered, according to Mr. Krook, would have asked the people to decide between the Congress and the President, their legislative and executive elected representatives, as against the Supreme Court appointed by the Executive.

Had the Supreme Court gold decision gone the wrong way and had the President delivered such a message it might have meant a sudden change in the American form of government, carrying you back to the day when Andrew Jackson, displeased with a Supreme Court ruling, said, "John Marshall (chief justice of the Supreme Court) has made this decision; now let him enforce it."

YOU MAY HAVE read here a suggestion, made on high authority, that the Supreme Court's right to veto the acts of Congress and the President is based on ingenious decisions by John Marshall, rather than on any definite constitutional provision.

Had the President felt it necessary to go to the people to override a decision of the Supreme Court, his case would have been helped by the fact that the court itself disagreed, 5 to 4, which naturally indicates uncertainty on the part of learned justices.

YOU KNOW THAT the oldest member of the bench, Mr. Justice McReynolds, said that he and the other three dissenting justices felt "ashamed and humiliated" by the majority decision.

Senator Glass of Virginia, whose cables are good, sold gold money, called upon by reporters, cut his observation down to one word, "hell," and said no more. This meant that he was not pleased.

WHILE WE STAY off the gold basis, "proud of it," telling the world, "Shake our dollar if you can," Europe's "gold bloc" nations are both-ered.

The Bank of France has sold a great quantity of Italy's lire, knocking them down to a new low price. This country can afford to abandon gold, when others cannot, because it has so much real wealth back of its paper. Any kind of money that will buy anything in the United States is good money.

"MEN HAVE DIED, and worms have eaten them, but not for love." Shakespeare, who wrote that, knew it did not apply to women. Men commit suicide when they lose money, women commit suicide when disappointed in love.

Where, among men, would you find a match for Jane and Elizabeth Du Bois, sisters, 20 and 23 years old, daughters of the United States consul general at Naples? Their hearts were broken when their two best friends, British fliers, were killed in the crash of a Royal Air Force plane.

They reserved all the eight passenger seats in a British airplane, persuaded the pilot to close the door and cover the windows between himself and his two passengers.

At 4,000 feet up the two sisters opened the door and jumped, hand in hand. Let us hope they have found their two pilots and found them worth while.

Men don't do that; they are content to tell some other lady how badly they feel and accept tender consolation.

FINLAND HAS developed, and England will try out, a new "helicopter" airplane, alleged to fly 250 miles an hour. Invented by a young Finnish engineer, Viljo Louhia, this helicopter has no propeller or wings, and can carry heavy loads, important in war time. It can rise like a feather, slowly, on your lawn or putting green. Some American with capital, if such a thing remains, ought to investigate that airplane.

ALFRED P. SLOAN, Jr., ought to send Captain Eddie Rickenbacker over to test it. Also, the United States government ought to be interested, but the United States government is so busy spending the taxpayers' billions, "sharing the wealth," every man a King, or a Kingfish, or a bankrupt, that it has no time for improvements in the airplane, which was invented here.

Local Youth Sighted Macon Before Crash

Scout Executive's Son, On Navy Ship, Saw Craft Nine Minutes Before Fall

Nine minutes before the United States dirigible Macon crashed into the Pacific ocean, a New Castle youth, George Horton, aboard the U. S. C. Chicago, saw the nation's silver aircraft sailing majestically through the sky.

Young Horton told his father, Scout Executive H. G. Horton, the facts in a letter reaching here today.

Horton, now serving in the navy, sighted the Macon off the Chicago's stern at 5:05 p. m. the evening it crashed. Nine minutes later, at 5:14, a ship received a message to prepare for rescue work.

The letter indicated that other navy cruisers, the Concord and the Maryland, performed the necessary rescues and that the Chicago's aid was not needed.

The naval fleet had been concentrated off San Francisco for maneuvers and the Macon had flown there to take part.

DINNER AFFAIR AT EMMANUEL BAPTIST

A tureen dinner was held Friday evening in the dining room of the Emmanuel Baptist church on Reynolds street, which proved one of the most enjoyable events which commemorated the birthday of our first President.

The committee serving consisted of Mrs. Morgan Jones, Mrs. William P. Vogan, Mrs. Albert Jones, Mrs. Sol Davies, Mrs. Richard Jones, Mrs. David Clemens, Mrs. William Richards and Miss Elvina Davis.

In behalf of the New Castle Choral Society, Mrs. Morgan Jones presented their director, Miss Gladys Thomas, with a handsome black ebony gold tipped baton.

Poverty Party

Last worthy Mistress of L. L. O. I., held a poverty party Friday evening in the home of Mrs. E. B. Ray, on Hillcrest avenue.

Mrs. Blanche Lewis won the prize for representing the most pitiful object of depression, but even their costumes didn't dampen the women's ardor for a good time, for they played bingo and 500 until a late hour. Lunch of an appropriate nature was served.

On next Monday evening, a similar party will be held at the home of Mrs. Blanche Lewis, 416 E. Washington street.

Philathea Class

Mrs. Morris Houk, of East Washington street, received the Philathea class of the Emmanuel Baptist church for a business and social meeting on Friday evening.

Mrs. Houk, as president of the class was in charge of the business meeting during which plans were made tentatively for a tea at the church. The date for the event was not decided upon.

Social chat and the serving of a dainty lunch by the hostess followed. In March the class will meet with Miss Helen Jones, Hanna street.

Skippy Sunshine Club

A Skippy Sunshine club has been organized by a group of girls, their initial meeting taking place last evening in the home of Edith Snow on Becker street. Officers were elected, Colleen Miller being named president; Isabel Ramsey, vice-president; and Edith Snow, treasurer.

Following an informal social time, the guests were served a tasty repast, with appointments being the season tones.

The second meeting will take place in the home of Dorothy Wilson on Dewey avenue.

H. G. L. Girls

Cards formed the main pastime for the H. G. L. Girls club Friday evening, when they met with Mrs. Naomi Clements, Reynolds street. Lovely prizes were awarded to Mrs. Lola Kerr and Mrs. Telitha Richards.

In serving a dainty repast, the hostess was assisted by her mother, Mrs. Nelson Armstrong. Red, white and blue tones were used in the menu and table appointments.

Miss Rhoda Hookway of Electric street, will entertain the girls in two weeks.

Butler Girls Club

Mrs. Carl Bovard of Winslow avenue, had for her guests last evening, members of the Butler Girls club. Following their regular monthly routine, a period of games followed. Refreshments served by the hostess at tables appointed in patriotic suggestions, concluded activities.

March 22 marks the date of their next event, with Mrs. J. W. Anderson of Pine street.

Prize Winners

Mrs. Francis H. Johnson and Mrs. Harry Leathers were fortunate winners of pretty favors at the meeting of the Moonlight 500 club on Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. H. J. Reynolds, on East Washington street. After a period devoted to the popular pastimes, a dainty repast concluded the evening's pleasures.

GIRL SCOUTS

Sergeant Miller taught the troop two new games, "Holland Shoe" and a signal game. Several songs were sung and the meeting closed with flag salute.

Scribe, Bette Woods.

TROOP NO. 12

Chicken Branding Being Started Here

New Method For Identification Of Chickens Is Introduced

Representing the National Tattooing Registry Association, G. B. Lachar and four associates are in Lawrence county today, introducing something new in the identification of chickens. Brands resembling the system used in branding cattle in the west are used and each grower's brand is registered with the sheriff, the county detective and the state police.

The brand is punctured through the skin on the right wing of the chicken. Then ink is rubbed over it, making an indelible tattoo that stays with the chicken as long as it lives.

In the case of stolen chickens they can be identified very easily.

In the past five years there have been thousands of chickens stolen in Lawrence county. In a few cases the thieves have been caught and sentenced. With the use of the tattoo brand it is thought that chicken stealing will be greatly reduced.

Dates For Fairs Are Set Friday

Meeting At Butler Fixes Dates For Fairs Of This District

Dates for fairs in the Coal, Iron and Oil Fair Circuit were set Friday, February 22 when representatives of the circuit met in the Nixon Hotel in Butler. A Clyde Shoaf, manager of the New Castle Fair was among those present.

The schedule arranged for the fairs follows: Ford City, week of August 12; Butler, week of August 19; Clarion, week of August 26; Stoneboro, August 30 to Sept. 3; Mercer, week of September 9; New Castle, week of September 16.

There was considerable discussion of the proposed pari-mutuel betting machines bill now before the General Assembly. Most of the delegates were against introducing betting in fairs in Pennsylvania. Recently the General Assembly of the state of Indiana, killed such a bill.

Fined $10.00 For Reckless Driving

Patrolman Ray Richards Search Result In Apprehension Of Huff

Sometime ago Patrolman Ray Richards ordered an autoist to stop in Morris Way so he could make an investigation. Instead the operator is alleged by Richards to have run so close to a building that Richards was scraped off the running board. He slipped a-d fell and the car got away. However, Richards caught one number of the license plate.

This morning when Mayor Charles B. Mayne held police court, Richards appeared against Russell Huff, colored. He charged Huff with being the autoist and the latter was fined $10.00, on a charge of reckless driving.

St. Michaels Christians And Hearts Winners

St. Michaels Top First M. E.
Boys 44 To 24, Christians
Toppie Epworth
M. E.

SACRED HEARTS SWAMP OPPONENTS

Flashing the best passing attack and most accurate shooting seen at the Y. M. C. A. floor in quite some time the league leading strong St. Michaels basketball team staged a last half rally against the First M. E. last night at the "Y" in the New Castle church league that brought them a 44 to 24 victory.

James "Shimmy" Balla, Andy Motko and Walter Chernyavsky, the "Three Musketeers" of the St. Michaels, were brilliant last night as they garnered 35 of the points made by the Babovskymen. At the half it was 12 to 11 in favor of the St. Michaels, but in the last half it was a complete rout for the boys from Oakland. The St. Michaels looked like a truly championship team as they annihilated the strong Methodists. J. Slosnerick, Hnat, M. Slosnerick and Mackiewicz kept the First M. E. forwards checked nicely all evening and didn't allow very many field goals to be registered.

Sacred Hearts Win.
The Sacred Hearts continued their winning ways in the church league team under a 54 to 15 count, with Viggiano and Gallagher the high scoring aces with 32 of the points. N. Gennock and Merando also played nice basketball. "Izzy" Solomon led the Jewish boys in scoring. The victory keeps the Hearts dangerously close to the St. Michaels and a real battle is sure to come when these two teams tangle later.

The First Christians handed the Epworth M. E. team a surprise package last night in the form of a 25 to 15 defeat, with Lannigan, Alexander and Morrison doing the bulk of the scoring. For the Epworths the work of Shaffer and Tommy Jones was the best.

THE SPORT PATROL

By JOHN J. MAKER, JR.
JUVENILE CATCHERS.

Good catchers, say the major league magnates, have been as rare during recent years as a June snowstorm. The minors are completely void of Cochrane, Dickeys, Perrells, or Hartnests declare the scouts.

This season, however, an unusually large number of juvenile receivers are being taken to the training camps. This indicates either that the recent scarcity of good catchers has induced the American youth to take up backstopping or that the magnates hope to draw a prize catcher from a large group of candidates. Which of the two conditions exist we shall not know until late in the summer.

The Chicago Cubs are taking Walter Goebel, Ken O'Dea, and Walter Stephenson for trials. Stephenson, only 22 years old, is due to be farmed out for more experience; he batted only 284 in the tiny Evangeline league. Goebel, after a season at Los Angeles, may stay up; he boasts a .297 Pacific Coast league batting mark. Ken O'Dea, however, has the best chance of sticking around. He came from Columbus via the Cards and is considered an excellent prospect.

Aubrey Epps will try to land a job with the Pirates but is still a year away from major league competition. Little Aubrey (they call him Yo-Yo) was an outfielder most of last season down in Birmingham but in the last few weeks of the campaign little Aubrey was sent behind the batter.

Cincinnati has two unusually fine prospects in Gilly Campbell and Hank Erickson. Campbell has had previous experience with the Cubs but spent the 1934 season with Birmingham but in the last few weeks of the campaign little Aubrey was sent behind the batter.

The Braves drafted Buddy Lewis from the Rochester farm of the Cards. Buddy is a veteran as far as age is concerned and has also had big league experience at St. Louis.

He may remain with the Braves, however, since that club has no extra ball players to worry about at all.

Frank Reiber may become the third string catcher with Detroit, but will hardly advance further with Cochrane and Hayworth on the job. Frank batted only .247 at Montreal last year but usually does better than that.

The Whitesox will try George Cathamer and Bob Penner. The former needs more experience but Penner may make the grade. This lad was purchased from St. Paul who is 26 years old, weighs 200 pounds and is more than six feet tall. With an ideal physique, experience, and an ability to slug all in his favor Bob should be able to land the job of second string receiver at least.

Gordon Hinkle and George Savino will receive trials with the Red Sox. Hinkle, who spent a portion of last season in Beantown, will probably get the third-string job although he is woefully weak with the willow. Savino, 323 in the N. Y. P. league in 1934 and is said to possess an unusually strong throwing arm. He is a fine prospect but will be farmed to Syracuse which will really do him more good than sitting on the Boston bench watching Rick Perrell do all the receiving.

Washington has two Southern association recruits in Redmond and Holbrook. One, possibly both, will be farmed out but if either sticks it shall be Holbrook who is said to be a real find.

Rogers Hornsby will give Heath another trial and he may stay in St. Louis just to do bull-pen work. He can catch all right but can't hit the size of his hat, even in the Texas league.

The Indians take Bob Garbark and a Greek youngster named George to New Orleans with them. George will likely remain in New Orleans where he was the second-string catcher last year, while Garbark probably have another season in the American association. Garbark is a former Allegheny college star athlete.

Col. Ruppert has two unusually fine prospects in Joe Glenn and Bob Kies. Joe is one of numerous youngsters who has been handicapped by the three-year option rule. He spent last year at Newark along with Kies as a Yankee farm hand when there were a number of teams in the majors that could have used him.

You can classify these recruit catchers in two groups: those likely to remain in the majors and those in need of further seasoning. Stephenson, Reiber, Cathamer, Savino, Redmond, Holbrook, Garbark, George and Kies will probably be back in the minors for at least another year.

O'Dea, Campbell, Lewis, Penner, Glenn, and possibly Heath and Hinkle will make the grade.

Polish Falcons To Play Farrell

Polish Falcons will play their toughest rivals, Farrell, St. Michaels Sunday afternoon at the Falcon hall at 2:30 o'clock. The St. Michaels of Farrell have been the Mercer County champions for three years, and will be out to add the Polish Falcons to their string if they can. However, this looks like a big assignment.

Asks Sportsmen To Protect Birds

Will Be Unable To Secure Feed
As Result Of Crust On Snow, Coen States

Game Warden Frank L. Coen, today issued an appeal to sportsmen of Lawrence county to take action to protect the game birds in the wilds by placing food where they will be able to get at it.

The heavy snows of the last two days, coupled with the crust on the snow which has formed as the result of rain and sleet, will make it impossible for the birds, particularly quail to get at their natural food, and they will starve in a few days unless sportsmen place feed in sheltered places for them.
